Area museum bid is accepted by city

Members of the Belle Glade City Commission and the Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee were to meet Wednesday afternoon to hammer out the final details and sign contracts to begin construction of a proposed museum.

The commissioners awarded a bid to Roe Steele to build the museum, along with another $1,900 bid for the air conditioning, contingent on an agreement on how the building is to be paid for.

The city has agreed to foot the bill for the air conditioning and the Bicentennial Committee has agreed to pay for the building.

The problem Monday night was that although the committee has agreed to pay for the building, City Attorney John Baker said the city will have to have a specific guarantee of payment.

Baker said he was working out an indemnity agreement which he would have ready Tuesday.

Committee member Don Fiehs, who is chairman of the sub-committee dealing with construction, said the committee is approximately $10,000 short of having sufficient funds to pay for the museum, which will be turned over to the city on completion of construction. Although the committee doesn't have the cash in the bank, Fiehs said there is approximately $23,000 either on hand or pledged.

Baker said there are several ways the committee could guarantee payment, including having each of the members guarantee a certain amount or to have one member or non-member agree to underwrite the difference.

Fiehs suggested the city could also agree to underwrite the difference until the funds could be raised. He said there is little or not doubt the committee will eventually have the funds.

Steele, who was the audience, said the bid he is in so on because he regards the difference as his contribution to the city's Bicentennial celebration.

The original estimate for the building was $40,000. Almost $9,000 over the amount Steele said he would build it for.

The city had already scheduled a work session for Wednesday afternoon and Commissioner Tom Altman suggested the matter could be resolved by calling a special session at that time.

Superwalk '76

So where were these girls stepping it off to bright and early Saturday morning? WSWN disc jockey Simon Train (below) was curious enough to ask Rhonda Grear and Donald Mann and found in the interview they were all taking part in the Fourth Annual Glades Walkathon for the March of Dimes. More than 400 walkers from Belle Glade participated in the walk to Pahokee and back. More pictures on the Home Front and page 3B.

Marina hours are shortened

The Belle Glade City Commission passed a resolution Monday night closing the City Marina between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m. and limiting the number of people inside the camping area during that time to registered campers.

The resolution lengthened the closing time of the marina by three hours. The closing time had been 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. and there had been no provision for limiting the people inside.

The ban on outsiders would be exempted by a special permit for the use of the pavilion of all or part of the picnic area, the permits could be obtained from the park manager.

Another item the commissioners were to act upon was the installation of a high service pump to be installed in the city's water system for the benefit of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida.

The pump was the subject of an hour-long discussion, mostly involving City Attorney John Baker and City Manager George Knoblock, with the commission finally deciding to put off any action until a special session Wednesday.

The problem was that Baker said he was wary of an agreement in which nobody was apparently ready to accept responsibility for the installation of the pump, or its engineering.

Under the agreement, Briley-Young Engineers would observe the pump installation and Baker said he thought the engineers should "certify" the installation and the pump's design.

The commission did act, however, in granting final approval to a plan to improve the lighting on Southwest Avenue E from Glades Plaza to US441 and have Florida Power & Light begin installing the new system.

The plan calls for installation of sodium vapor lamps all along the street.

In other action, the commission:

Awarded a plaque of appreciation to former Fire Chief Floyd Smith for his years of service in that capacity before he retired.

Granted a request for sewer service to a proposed Home for the Aged. The $2-bed home will be built and operated by Mrs. Margaret Peavy on the property adjacent to her present facility on Southwest 14th Street.

St. Joe buys Florida Sugar

Florida Sugar Refinery General Manager Tom Swager confirmed this weeks report that the liquid-sugar producing facility had been purchased last week by St. Joe Paper Co.

St. Joe, part of the financial and business empire run by North Florida

Board members of Wee Care, the community operated day care center on Southwest Tenth Street, will sponsor a banquet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Lake Shore Junior High cafeteria to kick off the 1976 fund-raising drive.

Wee Care Fund Drive Chairman Hercules Culler is also sending a letter to residents in the Belle Glade area in a parallel effort to reach the $30,000 1976 goal.

"Several sources of funding have been identified in operating this program in the past," Culler said, "but we believe the latest is the best by far."

Culler said the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, through its Division of Social and Economic Services in Jacksonville, provides funding under the stipulation that the local community must raise 12.5 per cent of the total budget.

He said those funds are matched by state funds of $60-$90 basis and the federal government provides matching funds for this 25 per cent on a $3 for $1 basis.

Culler pointed out that Wee Care was recognized for its contributions to the community in 1968 when Congressman Paul T. Rogers conferred on it the National Rural Services Award.

Tycoon Ed Ball, bought the refinery from North American Sugar Corp., a subsidiary of the Borden Corp. on Mar. 15.

Florida Sugar Corp. began operation in 1961 as a sugar mill and the refinery went on the line in 1964. The mill was shut down, however in 1971 when Borden bought in the company and since that time the refinery has been processing the raw sugar it processes from virtually every sugar mill in western Palm Beach County.

It is the only refinery in Palm Beach County and Swager said approximately 300 tons of liquid sugar is produced every day.

Swager said St. Joe also owns an interest in Talisman Sugar Corp. but unlike Talisman, which is partially owned by Miami businessman Ed Pawley, Florida Sugar will be a wholly-owned subsidiary of St. Joe.

He said Inter-American Engineering Co. is at present dismantling the old sugar mill at Florida Sugar and transporting it to Honduras. He said parts of the mill have already been shipped but more dismantling remains to be accomplished.

Higher maintenance cost, estimated at 3 to 4 per cent, might go away with the estimated savings.

Exposed air-conditioning ducts, and other utility lines give an undesirable look and will present maintenance difficulties.

Highest use of the Glades campus will probably be at night, when the sky-lighting would have no effect.

Blacking out for audio-visual instruction would be extremely difficult.

The design allows less flexibility in the use of interior space.

In addition to difficulty in cleaning, the windows near the roof could easily provide maintenance problems as the building grows older.

In the opinion of Mrs. Homer Hand, trustee from Belle Glade, and Dr. Cecil Conley, PBIC Vice-President for the Glades Center, the people of the Glades would not favor the sky-lighting design.

Dr. Robert Smith, board chairman, and trustee George Michael joined Mrs. Hand in the 3-2 vote for conventional roof treatment.

Other aspects of the plans, which include two buildings with 13 classrooms, laboratories, offices and other support facilities including a maintenance building, parking and roadways, were approved without comment by the board.

The plans will go to the State Department of education, and must then return to the trustees for final approval before building procedures.

Estimated completion is April, 1977, at an overall cost of approximately $2,200,000.

Skylights are voted down for PBIC-Glades campus

Palm Beach Junior College trustees decided on a conventional roof line for the buildings in the first phase of the Glades Campus at the regular March meeting of the board, (Wed., Mar. 17).

The board approved preliminary plans drawn by Smith Architectural Group, but voted 3-2 for conventional roof treatment rather than the multi-peaked sky-lighting design used by the same firm in the Borton Middle School.

Architect Warren Smith explained the energy-saving estimates for sky-lighting to a board which had looked at the uncompleted building at Borton and developed serious doubts as to the desirability of this type of construction for the Glades campus.

Smith's preference for the sky-lighting design, plus estimates of $3,000 annual savings, resulting in recovery of higher initial costs in the first four to five years, were enough for trustee Susan Anstead, who, with Dr. Phillip Lichtman, voted against approval of the conventional roof line plans.

Mrs. Anstead said she believed an initial reaction against the new design would be replaced by approval with increasing familiarity, and that the cost of energy is bound to increase.

Dr. Lichtman said he needed more information before reaching a decision.

Points raised by the board majority and college staff who opposed the sky-lighting design:

Higher maintenance cost, estimated at 3 to 4 per cent, might go away with the estimated savings.

Exposed air-conditioning ducts, and other utility lines give an undesirable look and will present maintenance difficulties.

Some cutters get bonuses

Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office deputies were kept busy Friday through Monday when British West Indies sugar cane cutters demonstrated at two sugar mills in the county for pay bonuses.

The troubles began Friday when cane cutters at the Gulf & Western Okelanta mill demanded a bonus similar to the one received by cutters a year ago and which U.S. Sugar had paid this year when their two mills ground down.

Okelanta officials at first refused, saying the bonuses weren't included in the contract the mill signed with the workers, but later capitulated and brought in an extra $300,000 to pay off the workers with bonuses.

Officials at Atlantic Sugar Association, however, refused to pay the bonuses demanded by workers who began a rock-throwing demonstration Sunday in which 60 workers blocked the access road to the mill and forced the mill to shut down.

A bus-load of the workers were transported to Miami Sunday after the sheriff's deputies were called to the scene in full riot gear. The first bus-load was escorted by four Sheriff's officers.

Deputies under the command of Lt. George Suttle remained on guard at the Atlantic mill the rest of the day Sunday, that night and Monday until about 4 p.m. when they stood down and returned to Belle Glade and the coast.

At one point Monday, County Sheriff William Heidtman visited the scene but no violence was reported that day.

Several sources in the sugar industry indicated the workers at some area mills were paid a bonus last year because of the high price of sugar at that time.

When the workers at U.S. Sugar were paid a bonus this year, one official speculated, cutters at the Okelanta and Atlantic mills thought they might get bonuses too if they demanded them.

Units from three different fire-fighting organizations were unable to save the Terrytown Truck Stop US77 near the Broward County line Wednesday morning according to Warren Street of the Belle Glade Fire Department.

Street said one truck from the Belle Glade Fire Station answered the call at 7:41 a.m. with Lt. Bobby Carter, himself and Fireman Tommy Williams.

He said the Florida Forestry Service bomber-dier in Belle Glade and two units from the Fort Lauderdale Fire Department also responded to the call but the burning was most burned to the ground by the time they arrived on the scene.

Winds hamper fishing

Winds on Monday and Tuesday of last week hampered fishing in the Belle Glade area somewhat, with almost all catches reported coming in over the week end. Spoons or Plastic Worms still seem to be the best bet for anglers with several nice catches coming in on live bait also, according to Nan Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp.

Bob Leeds of Hollywood, and Brach Maupin of Richmond, Ky., took their limits on Thursday using Blue and Green plastic Honey Haws.

Arch and Charlene Stalard of Stuart brought in seven bass using live bait on Thursday.

Joe Brewer of Belle Glade weighed in an 8 pound 5 oz. bass on Wednesday caught on a live shiner.

Warren France of Beckley, W. Va., brought in an 8 lb. 2 oz. bass on Thursday and a 6 1/2 pounder on Friday.

Lee Arden and Frank Blocker of Fort Lauderdale limited out on Friday with 10 bass each using plastic worms with the largest going 8 pounds.

Belle Glade fisherman Rusty Hall took a 10 1/2 pounder on a black worm on Friday.

Charlie Hyman of West Palm Beach, came in with five bass up to 7 pounds each on Saturday morning.

J. D. Williams of Nashville, Tenn., limited out on Saturday using a Blue worm and a Silver Spoon. His largest weighed in at 6 1/2 pounds.

James Hamm of Rock Island, Ill. came in with a 9 pound 5 oz. bass on Tuesday in spite of the wind.

The Roscoe Leggs of Belle Glade and the Claude Herchenhans of West Palm Beach used live bait on Saturday to catch 45 specks, four bass, and Mrs. Legg landed a 3 pound catfish.

Bob Roberts of West Palm Beach, weighed in a 7 1/4 pound and a 3 pound bass on Saturday morning. Roberts also took 21 Blue Gills on Saturday. This is our largest catch of Blue Gills to be reported this year. That season is almost here though, so we should have some limits coming in real soon.

Tex. Ryan, visiting Belle Glade from Michigan, brought in the largest this week when he weighed in his 11 pound 4 oz. bass caught on a live shiner. Mr. Ryan also reported an 8 1/2 pounder and two more that went over 7 pounds on Thursday and Friday.

John Campbell of Palm Springs reported a three day total of 150 Specks for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Two arrested on drug charges

Two Belle Glade men were arrested Saturday for possession of narcotics paraphernalia when they literally opened the door to a pair of police officers who heard opportunity knocking.

Sgt. L. L. Lowry and Patrolman T. M. Corderman were on foot patrol at 517 S.W. Ave. B Place when they arrested George Cummings, 25 and Leon Williams, 34, both of the same address, for possession of the paraphernalia.

The two reported later they were standing at the door of the apartment when a man they identified as Sterling "Kidd" Rogers walked up and knocked on the door.

As he knocked, they said Rogers turned to them and asked twice, in a loud voice, "Have you caught anyone lately?" then turned and left.

As Rogers left, the apartment door opened and Cummings asked the two officers what they wanted. Corderman said he told Cummings Rogers had knocked and then left and Cummings walked off in the direction Rogers had gone.

Corderman said he looked in the apartment and saw Williams on the bed and on a table, "in plain view" were a needle and a "cooker."

Lowry and Corderman said they found a syringe needle and cover, an ash tray full of burned matches, a cooker, three pieces of tin foil, a bloody towel, a metal lid, a bottle of alcohol and a tie-off rope.

Local builders get a second chance

Local contractors who may not have bid on a job to rehabilitate the home of Manor Godfrey at 537 S.W. Ninth St. using Community Block Grant funds are fighting the pot sweetened this week with technical assistance. Belle Glade Community Development Director George Gartner said Wednesday he had advertised for bids earlier but there had been no response. Apparently, Gartner said, the lack of response could be traced to a lack of technical expertise on the part of the contractors who might normally have bid on the job and no experience in dealing with the federal government.

"This time," he said, "we've included a clause which says in so many words, 'Look here, guys, if you need technical help, we have an architect who will help you free of charge.'"

Library receives donation

Women's Club. Mrs. Strickland said the donation is an annual event on the part of the club.

tour of duty

Major Joseph M. Hughes of 945 S.E. Third St., an Air Force Academy Liaison Officer for the Glades area, has completed a brief tour of active duty at the Academy near Colorado Springs, Colorado. He is an Air Force Reserve Officer assigned as an official admissions counselor for the Academy in his home area.

He was briefed by members of the Academy faculty and staff on various phases of the academic, athletic and airman programs which prepare cadets for Air Force officer careers. He also toured the modern facilities and observed cadets in their training programs.

Major Hughes serves as an Academy Liaison Officer in addition to his civilian occupation as a pharmacist with Wallis Pharmacy of Belle Glade. Students, parents and school guidance counselors may obtain information about the Academy by contacting him at (805) 996-9736, 1729 W. Canal St., N. in Belle Glade.

work session Monday to scrap plans to buy the W. T. Grant Building on West Avenue A to use it for city hall.

The decision came when the commission received a report by a second architect that the city would have to pay more than $400,000 to ready the building for occupancy by the city.

The commission had been discussing for some time the possibility of using the building in an effort to save taxpayers money and simultaneously give a boost to the downtown area.

But the $400,000 price tag, coming hard on the heels of a $650,000 estimate by another architect two weeks ago, combined with the asking price of $400,000 by the owner, would put the price in excess of what the commission was willing to pay.

Major Hughes.

Pot Likker

by R-D Santee

The end is near.
I feel it. I know it.
You may be miserable when you are sick. But miserable is not an apt description for me in times of infirmity.

Total decimation of body, mind and spirit flooded with the abject attitude of the impending visitation of the grim reaper would be a much more appropriate definition of my state when I'm ill.

I have the flu.
Not your common, everyday flu. I have the rarest kind I'm sure. So rare that medical science has yet given it a name. I have my own name for it but delirium and propriety require that I refrain from publishing its nomenclature in this writing.

My problem with being ill is that I have to suffer the indignities of physicians who feel that I'm agonizing with the same affliction as everyone else.

For instance, I called my doctor's office and was promptly referred to his nurse. She is built like, has the vocabulary of and the same demeanor of a top sergeant in the Marines.

"What's matter with you?" she hollered into the phone.

"I'm suffering a fever of one hundred and fifty. I can't keep anything down, I am hacking and coughing, my body feels as though it were trod upon by the Budweiser Clydesdales, I have splashes on my entire body that, in the nude, makes my body look like a camouflage suit. I have fits of delirium when my favorite whisky tastes like cod liver oil and my chewing tobacco has the texture of chopped liver." I answered weakly.

"Ever'body else in town is callin' in with the same symptoms" she said "You've just got the flu."

"No one just has the flu," I cried. "Besides, I'm sure that if something isn't done right away I shall most certainly expire. Send an ambulance! Make sure it has an escort! See to it the intersections to the hospital are clear! Have an internist, a thoracic surgeon, a urologist and neurosurgeon scrubbed and ready to operate! Call my family to my bedside. Have a Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen on ready! (I'm not taking any chances. I'm hedging all my bets.) Why do you continue to hang on the other end of the line? Are you a sadist who wants to hear the dying throes of a doomed, helpless man?"

"You can come in and I'll give you a shot," she replied calmly.

"Where?" I asked cautiously.

"Need you ask?" she questioned.

I fell silent for a second, I could not conceive of this woman giving me an injection. The syringe would be the size of a Mason jar and the needle of the approximate proportions of a pencil. And she would be jabbing me unmercifully in that portion of my anatomy that is necessary for correct sitting posture.

"Madam," I finally said "you have cured me. The symptoms I described to you earlier have fled my body and have been replaced with utter and total contentment. You are a miracle worker. If ever I should become so desperately ill again I will most assuredly call you and let you heal me long distance."

Thank you.

I'm still sick. But the vision of being tended to by such a person have truly made me re-evaluate my standards for determining illness. Before, I felt I was terminal. Now I know I will just be disabled for the balance of my natural life.

False alarms aren't funny

Few things are as unfunny as a joke which ends in the sadness of death or injury.

Two Glades Central students found out the hard way this week the state shares of calling a false alarm in to a fire station.

Firefighters and rescue personnel, as well as police officers, have no choice when they receive a call for help. That's their job and they have to respond.

By the very nature of the types of calls they answer, these emergency solvers know minutes, and sometimes even seconds, count so they literally have to leave on the run.

It's a well-recognized fact that speed increases the chances for an accident, an accident in which one or more of the people answering the call, or an innocent bystander, can be killed or maimed for life.

That's not funny.

Neither is it too hard to figure out that when a fire engine is responding to a false alarm in, say, the northeast section of town, and a legitimate call comes in from, say, the southwest section of the city, the legitimate call is going to get short shift for what could be vital minutes.

That's why we don't think three years in prison is a particularly harsh penalty for a practical joker who spends his time making false alarms.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Surprise! Surprise! Young men like to look at good lookin' girls.

Now, that may be hard to believe but it's true. The federal gov'mint really outdid itself in making that finding. They had to spend more than $46,000 to get the information but it was worth it.

Think about it. The world might have gone on for untold centuries without knowing guys like to ogle girls and that would have been disastrous. Look at all the disasters that's already taken place that could have been prevented if this little-known fact had been made public before.

Think of all the wars that could've been prevented if only someone had been on hand with the know how to say, "Looka here, people, instead of all this messy fighting and bloodshed, let's take the day off and look at the chicks. You may not realize it but we like to."

Might even could have avoided a lot of highway deaths if only we'd put some good lookin' women out on the highway. After all, what red-blooded young American boy is gonna keep on driving 80 miles an hour when he's passing a scantily-clad girl every quarter-mile. Put some fine looking females in banks and there'd never be any bank robberies, right? Wouldn't the potential bad guys rather hang around and try to make a date, or just look, than make off with the loot?

If only we'd known.
But I gotta confession to make. I knew it all along.

Didn't even realize I was keeping a secret of such earth-shaking importance but if the gov'mint had only let me know, I coulda saved them a lot of money.

They wouldn't have had to make that $46,000 study. If they'd let me know, I woulda told 'em for $10,000 or less. Heck, I'd have even paid for the phone call but I thought they knew.

Matter of fact, I might still save Uncle Sugar some of that tax money. If I can find out who wants to know, I'll call and let 'em know older fellers like to check out the pulchritude too.

Since they're already on the track, they might not have to spend another 46 grand to figure the rest out for themselves so in this case, I'll only ask for $50.

I realize there's probably another killer to be made here but what the heck, it's the Bicentennial and I'm feeling pretty patriotic so I'll give the bureaucrats a break with our money.

Maybe they'll get the spirit too and put the savings to some use...like paying off the graft for some poor Congressman who isn't getting his fair share at the public trough.

Speaking of the Bicentennial, didja hear the news that just came out Monday morning for the first time? It was a brand new piece of evidence in the Alexander Hamilton - Aaron Burr duel back about the turn of the century—the 19th century that is.

The big news was that Burr was killed and Hamilton disguised himself and lived out the rest of his life as his arch-enemy.

No, really, the news was that Hamilton may have outsmarted himself by rigging the dueling pistols he supplies for the fun and games in 1804 with concealed hair triggers.

Seems all you had to do was push the trigger forward before firing and instead of using five or six pounds of pressure to pull the trigger, it took only about half a pound.

So now the full story of the duel can be told for the first time.

Burr, all unaware of the trick trigger, fired off his hogleg the way it was supposed to have been done and brother Alex sneezed at a most inopportune time and set off his pistol a tad early and brought down a Canadian goose heading south for the winter.

Alas, poor Alex didn't have time to reload. Matter of fact, the screech of the geese startled Burr, who wasn't really a very good shot, into firing off his gun prematurely too. The bullet struck a tree limb 12 feet over Hamilton's head, ricocheted downward and snuffed out the life of one Cyril Putclutch, an innocent bystander who was in the area hunting for Canadian geese supposedly flying south for the winter.

The stricken goose, in the meantime, uttering a final forlorn call, plummeted to the earth and landed at Cyril's feet, and as young Cyril fell, he set off his fowling piece, morally wounding the gaping Hamilton.

The only person who benefited was Mrs. Putclutch. Burr, a well-known rake in the New York area, felt generous enough to take the goose to her and after a belated Christmas meal of roast goose, bestowed on her a dowry so she could catch another man to help bring up her children.

She really didn't like Putclutch anyway.

So there you have it, a little-known fact about our American Heritage, compliments of the Cracker crumbs, whether you wanted it or not.

Biting the hand that feeds.....

With all the thousands of words being put into print on the findings of the Special Study to Prevent the Eutrophication of Lake Okeechobee, which hasn't been released yet, it's amazing that at least two factors have been entirely ignored.

What concerns a lot of people here in the area immediately south of the Lake is that one of the primary things the studies intend to recommend (This is going to be one of the most anti-climatical reports we've ever heard of) is to stop back-pumping into the Lake and form a water-retention area in The Holy Land.

Stopping the back-pumping may be necessary. We're not experts on eutrophication and we don't know. It might be necessary too, to use the Holy Land as a holding pond. There again, we're not experts.

But we don't have to be experts to see one thing. A lot of people hollering the loudest to set up the holding pond and cut off the backpumping have the attitude that, "This is our water and damn the farmers, we're not going to give 'em a cent."

They have apparently never acknowledged that Congress set up the Everglades Conservation Area and the Everglades Agricultural Area, giving a little more than half the total area over to conservation and preservation of water, wildlife and the like.

And that was back in 1949, before the Audubon Society and The Sierra Club ever started pushing so hard for protecting so much land.

Even now, if the steps outlined in the million dollar study are really necessary, we feel they should be taken but we should also acknowledge the fact they would be taking land out of use which was set up originally for agriculture.

Point Two: These same people are yelling loud and clear at the Flood Control District and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers have ruined the water supply in South Florida by lack of foresight in their projects that made a straight-line ditch of the Kissimmee River and the elaborate water control system which has been developed over the years.

While this argument may hold water to some extent, the oracles are strangely silent on the lack of planning which has allowed the influx of millions of people into South Florida and the unfettered construction necessary to house them with no thought for the future.

And there's more than a vague resemblance to the migration of the millions of people into Southern California who now receive their daily ration of water from pipes leading to Northern California and even into adjacent states.

There's more than a vague resemblance to the "Saviours of the Everglades" are sometimes seen in the picket lines at super markets under signs protesting high food prices.

Water is a necessity of life. There's no getting around that but the same people who want a glassful in Miami or Fort Myers to drink also need more than a glassful before it ever reaches them to give life to the groceries they put on their table.

Hindsight, is often 20-20 but let's not find ourselves looking back towards the "good ole days" a few years from now as we wonder where we're going to find food to put on our tables.

Groceries don't grow in super markets. They grow in fields and they need water too.

Xi Iota Alpha honors Mrs. Painter as Girl of the Year

Mrs. Ben Painter was honored Saturday night as Xi Iota Alpha's Girl-of-the-Year. Mrs. Don Fliehs presented Mrs. Painter with a silver tray and a crown to recognize her contributions to the chapter. Mrs. Painter has served as social chairman this past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crockett were hosts for the dinner party. Guests enjoyed cocktails and hors d'oeuvres before the dinner of beef burgundy, beans almonde, buttered carrots, pie, and coffee. Silver, china, gold cloths, yellow hurricane candles, and white sugar bell name cards graced the tables.

The dinner party had been planned at two busy regular monthly meetings in March, one at Mrs. Luis Guerrero's and the other at Mrs. Jim Humphrey's. Recently initiated members, Mrs. Diego Gimenez and Mrs. Jim Humphrey, were welcomed in their new status.

Other business included noting a thank you from the Belle Glade Bi-Centennial Committee for Xi Iota Alpha's donation, the yearly election of officers, and the preparations for the Community mental Health's Mini-Fair scheduled for Apr. 3 near the Civic Center.

For the Mini-Fair Xi Iota plans a sloppy joe sandwich booth with serving beginning at 10:00 a.m. and running until 3 p.m. Mrs. Marlan Chapman and Mrs. Lee Burke, co-chairman, hope all fair visitors will stop by the booth for a convenient lunch or snack.

Guests of the Crockett's for the Girl-of-the-Year Party were Mr. and Mrs. V. Dushanen Mr. and Mrs.

Lake Harbor student selected as STAR pupil

Glades Central High School junior Cassandra Swain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Swain Jr. of Lake Harbor, was chosen to represent the local high school as the STAR student in the 1976 competition.

The STAR program is sponsored by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and is intended to recognize outstanding students and teachers.

Miss Swain was chosen from among the 12 juniors at the high school with the highest academic averages. At a district judging in Boca Raton, and the other district contestants were interviewed by a panel of four judges.

The winner for the district was Phil Gildan, a junior at Palm Beach Gardens. He will go to Tallahassee where the state STAR student will be chosen.

Social Chatter

By Maude Vereen

The Young Adults Choir of the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church observed their second anniversary Sunday evening by having a program that consisted of many choral groups.

The service was both spiritual and financially a success. At the end of the service, the young adults motored to South Bay to render service for Rev. Nelson.

Miss Marcelle Washington of Waterbury, Conn. is spending a week of her vacation here at the home of Mrs. Maude Vereen. Mrs. Brenda Vereen and son, Adam, met us in Orlando at Disney World where we spent the day.

Cpt. Carl Vereen is stationed in Germany and would like to receive mail from his friends. Carl wrote that he is glad that he accepted the challenge to go to Germany.

"Thought" "This is the Day the Lord hath made. Lord, show to me the way. Give me direction, be my Guide. Your will, let me obey."

The Walkathon got off to an early start for I drove by about 8:30 a.m. and passed walkers of all ages and sizes. Plus numerous bicycle riders that I'm sure posed a problem. During the week I talked to a few people who had aching joints.

The Violette Community Club members would like to thank each person who took the time to help them honor the 1976 Debutantes and their escorts. The club members were dressed in pink uniforms with orchid corsages and they served a brown pink punch, assorted cookies, minis, a variety of nuts, and they enjoyed games plus a program. The Debs and escorts expressed their appreciation of thanks before they left.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Ready just returned from a trip to Georgia where Mrs. Ready attended the funeral service of her uncle.

The funeral service of the late Mrs. Gloria Lockhart of Southwest Avenue E will be held Saturday at the Mt. Zion African Methodist Church, Rev. Charles Robinson pastor.

Please call Vereen at 996-2340 for news.

"Batterup!"
Umpires are shouting that phrase three times as much in Belle Glade this year with both of the private schools, Glades Day and Glades Christian, and Glades Central High School getting into the feminine movement with girls' softball teams.

The Glades Crusaders, the smallest of the schools, opened up their season with a disappointing 17 to three loss to Jupiter Christian. The girls were just outplayed and outmaneuvered that game and by the comparisons between the two teams. I was just about to write them off for this season.

However, I hadn't reckoned with the spunk of that team. True, they had improved tremendously from the week before when I had a sneak preview of the players as they were changed to a secret game by the faculty. That game was a battle of laughs. It was hard to tell who was worse, the teachers or the girls, but I guess the teachers had to have been because it is reputed they lost by quite a margin to the aspiring young team.

And the improvement I saw was remarkable between that Thursday and the following Tuesday of their first official game, at least 75 per cent better, and if it hadn't been for seemingly hurricane-force winds blowing across the field the team might have even done better. It doesn't seem like a big factor, the wind, but it is when you have a high pop fly coming down at you and the wind is playing tennis with the softball.

But even after that, I didn't have too much hope for the team and unwittingly dropped a few remarks to one of the members of the team.

By the time I got to the game, Christian Day was having a field day with their batting, and fielding too for that matter, trouncing Glades Day 11-0 after three innings of play. A couple of home runs had already been made and the Crusader bench was crackling with excitement while there was a gloomy atmosphere around the home team bench.

Then the trouble began for Christian Day in the form of pitching. Michelle Conway, the team's number one pitcher, had done a tremendous job for the Crusaders all week (and she's a beginner!) but finally, as it does all pitchers who have played two, and what was appearing to be a third, long game in four days, she began to tire. Unfortunately the Crusaders hadn't spent much time in retooling a relief pitcher for Michelle, so she had to stick it out the best she could, but after several runs had been walked in she had to be replaced out of the game. And if ever a pitcher deserved applause, she certainly did—she had put forth every effort she could, and I would have liked to have seen ANY pitcher do a better job with as much experience.

Unfortunately for all involved, Michelle's coach didn't see matters that way, and I don't know if she was trying to use psychology or not, she sure messed things up when she jumped on the poor girl, accusing her of giving up and losing the game for the team.

Now I've been playing softball for six years, and lucky for me when I first began playing (with Wallis Pharmacy), there never was a direct cut made towards me about being responsible for a defeat, although there were a couple of times I felt entirely responsible for it.

Nope, it was a team loss, no matter how many balls I Ask anyone and they'll agree.

Sad to say, good sportsmanship wasn't in evidence that day, all the way from the coach to the fans. I hope in the future the coach can set a better example to the players for good sportsmanship and make a game fun after all, aren't we forever returning to that old saying "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game."

In Christian Day's case this time, they lost, although I'll lay my money on the line and say they were by far the better team. How it will be the next time the two teams meet, I don't know, but if it had not been for that unfortunate quirk of fate, I do believe the Crusaders would have had that game if they had more depth in pitching.

Guess now I'll be Gator Bait for Glades Day School.

dropped or had throws I made—and that's one of the most important things in sports right now—good sportsmanship.

Instead of shouting at a player when she makes an honest mistake (especially if she's trying her hardest), and especially with young, inexperienced players, at least encourage her for the next time. Sure, point out to her what she did wrong, but don't come down on her.

Collie signs grant in aid with Bethune Cookman

Glades Central High School cornerback Patrick Collie signed a scholarship Monday to play football for Bethune Cookman College in Daytona Beach.

Collie was the second player from the 1975-76 Raiders to sign a full scholarship to play football for a college. The first was lineman Davey Locke, who signed last week to play for Morehouse State University in Kentucky.

Collie was a two-year letterman for the Raiders. He was named most valuable defensive back at the Glades Central Winter Sports Banquet and was also named to the All-Area, All-Region and All District football teams. He was also a player on the Raider basketball team.

School records set as G.C. girls track team wins

In their first full-event track meet this year, the Glades Central girls track team routed the other three teams competing at Raider Stadium last week.

School records were set in three events as the staff Raiders scored 88 points in the Big Lake Invitational against Martin County with 61, Atlantic High with 43 and Pahokee with 12.

Kathlene Ford set a record when she won the shotput with a heave of 38 feet, 10 inches. Glenda Dixon set another record in the discus throw by tossing the discus 100 feet, 3 inches.

Rosa Wilkerson, Janice Johnson, Glenda Dixon and Rose Hodges set still another record in the mile relay according to Coach Jay Seider.

The team went on to rack up first place wins in the 100 yard dash which Kathlene Ford won in 11.2 seconds, the 440 yard relay won by Alice Ford, Terry Osborne, Alma Rolle and Kathlene Ford in 52.5 seconds and the 880, won by the same girls.

Seider pointed out that he had two sisters, Kathlene and Alice Ford, anchoring his relay team but he said he had two other sisters competing also as Paulette Nelson ran in the 880 run while her sister, Levetta, ran in the mile run. Tekteta Lockett joined Levetta in the mile run.

their first attempt at the long race, and the two placed second and third. Seider said Miss Lockett was supposed to have been entered in the 220 yard dash and Miss Nelson was supposed to have run with her sister in the 880 yard run.

Coach Seider said three of his girls were disqualified because they ran out of their lanes in short runs or the team would have picked up still more points. He also singled out Alma Rolle for winning first place in the high jump with a leap of 4 feet, 11 inches, "which is a pretty good jump since we don't have any facilities to practice with."

Seider said the girls will next compete in a full meet on April 1 at the Boca Raton Invitational. He said he feels the feminine Raiders have a good chance of winning the conference title since the only other schools in the conference with girls teams are Pahokee, Cardinal Newman and Atlantic.

Funeral services for Mariaca held

Funeral services for David Saturnino Mariaca, 21, a truck driver for Capote and Sons who was drowned in an accident last Thursday, were held Saturday in Missions Funeral Home Chapel with Father Paul Saghy of St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church officiating.

He was born in Bolivia and came to Belle Glade four years ago, working for South Bay Growers and Capote and Sons. He made his home at Apartment 56, Osceola Center and was a member of the Catholic Church.

The accident occurred on a dirt road being surfaced which was located between the James Harry Wilkinson sugar cane property and land owned by Florida Food Co. about six miles north of Canal Point.

Mariaca had driven his loaded truck around a bulldozer being operated by Oscar Dorsey, 39, of 525 S.W. Fourth St. in Belle Glade when the canal bank gave way under the weight of the dump truck.

Florida Highway Patrol homicide investigator Paul C. May said George Will entered the canal and attempted to free Mariaca from the overturned truck cab but was unable to do so until he was joined by Mr. Jones.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Marcela de Mariaca of Belle Glade; a daughter, Miss Paola Tatiana Mariaca of Belle Glade; one brother, Waldo Mariaca of Bolivia; a sister, Mrs. Magaly Masias of Miami and his mother, Mrs. Julia Marin of Bolivia.

Missions Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

T-shirts and jean skirts workshop

A "T-shirts and jean skirts" workshop will be held at 10 a.m. Mar. 24, 31 and April 7 at the St. John's Episcopal Church on Northwest Avenue H according to Palm Beach County Home Economics Agent Arlen C. Jones.

Mrs. Jones said the workshop will be instructed by Mrs. Claudia McMaster, who will show how one can recycle old jeans and make them into a skirt.

A demonstration will also be given on how to make the popular knit tops. Mrs. Jones said this is all part of the move by large numbers of people who are recycling their wardrobes to save money.

She said the workshop will be open to all interested persons and urged local women to bring a pair of old jeans and join in.

Woman 'cuts up' at S.B. Policemans Ball

If the call had gone up Saturday night at El Ranchito, "Is there a cop in the house?", the caller might have been trampled at the South Bay Policemans Ball - so they called the Belle Glade Police Department.

The trouble started late during the second annual Police Benevolent Association's bash when a South Bay woman allegedly slapped a Belle Glade woman's date several times, arousing the ire of the Belle Glade woman.

Police arrested Ruth Brown, 24, of 1287 First Street in Riverview, charging her with assault and battery. Gloria Brown, 26, of South Bay was taken to Glades General Hospital for cuts around her eye, apparently caused by a broken bottle.

The Joint Legislative Management Committee announced the toll-free legislative number for the 1976 Session of the Florida Legislature will be 800-342-1827, the same as last session. It will be operative from Mar. 29 through June 18.

Committee Chairman, Senator Lew Brantley, said the line is available to all citizens throughout the state and the widespread interest in legislative activities, as shown through this service, has been gratifying. It was initiated on a trial basis during the 1962 Session when over 4,000 calls were received. There were close to 8,000 calls on the one line during the 1975 Session.

THE WATS line is operated by staff in the Legislative Information Division whose primary function is to record, through a computer, actions on all bills, as they occur on the floor of the House and Senate. The on-line system is current at all times, and the WATS operator has a video terminal for inquiry on her desk. A recording device is utilized after hours to record requests.

431 walkers earn the 'Order of the Battered Boot'

More than 380 walkers who participated in the March of Dimes' Fourth Annual Glades Walkathon Saturday are expected to turn in what they earned during the annual collection party to be held at 4 p.m. Saturday in Rardin Park. Mr. and Mrs. James Huggins, coordinators for the walk from the Belle Glade end Saturday, said 431 marchers left the Fritz Stein property at 8 a.m. and 388 made the return trip of 20 miles to turn in their sponsor sheets.

More than 280 walkers made the trek from Pahokee City Park to Belle Glade and back, mixing with the Belle Glade walkers most of the day.

The walkers ranged in age from small tykes to senior citizens, boys and girls, men and women. Some of the marchers actually ran most of the way, taking little more than 3.5 hours to make the 20 mile trip and others were still limping in to the starting points almost nine hours after they began the hike.

At least one walker, Chuck

Rimes of South Bay, was injured beyond the blisters which became commonplace. Chuck cut his foot on some glass just before getting to Rardin Park on the return trip and was treated by Emergency Medical Technicians from Pahokee in the park before being taken home.

The usual cookout will be held this Saturday, according to Mrs. Huggins. She said the food is being donated and will include hot dogs and corn on the cob.

One change, however, will be the awards. In the past, trophies have been presented to the walkers who made the trip in the fastest time but Mrs. Huggins said the three trophies this year will go to the three school-age walkers earning the most money for the charity.

"After all," Mrs. Huggins said, "money is what this is all about. We had some walkers who I know walked the whole 20 miles and weren't even sponsored. It's nice they wanted to walk but they didn't raise anything for the March of

One of the youngsters is being treated for a deformed arm and the other for problems with his legs. "I came in third," one of the makes the trek wasn't on the scene Saturday morning. Belle Glade Mayor William Grear didn't make the walk, even though he had challenged City Manager George Knoblock to complete the walk with him.

Knoblock started the walk several minutes after the other walkers had already left but ended earlier than most, picking up an escort of youngsters who made most of the walk with him.

Grear, in the meantime, was hobbling around his home with an injury he had suffered Friday when he fell from a ladder.

Mrs. Huggins said ribbons will also be presented to the youngest and oldest walkers and the first walkers to make it in from the round-trip between Belle Glade and Pahokee.

She said the Internal Revenue Service is also forcing another change to the normal collection party routine. The federal agency is requiring the collections made by each walker be sealed in its own envelope, to be counted at a later date.

Because of this, she said the trophies won't be presented at the party but will be presented at another time.

Mrs. Huggins said Tuesday that she wasn't sure yet how much had been pledged because of the Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority was still making a tally.

"My Upsilon has been active in this from the beginning," she said. "That was one organization that was working before the walk during the walk, will be working at the collection party and will still be working afterwards. I don't know how we could have made it without them."

Musical marcher

The March of Dimes received a bonus Sunday afternoon when more funds for the research and treatment of birth defects were received as the proceeds of a March of Dimes Country & Western Festival starring Kathy Kearns (above). Besides Mrs. Kearns, who sang with the Bonhomme Boys, there were a number of other singing groups such as Tim McCoy and the Night Life of Tampa, Belle Glade's own Southern Express (whose leader, David Lowman, put the festival together), and other groups and singers from all over South Florida. Although a final tally wasn't available late Tuesday, approximately $800 was added to the March of Dimes coffers.

Tom Lewis due here

State Rep. Tom Lewis (R-North Palm Beach) will be at the Bryant Auditorium in the Glades Office Building at 3 p.m. Friday.

"Due to my membership on the Appropriations Committee and the Select Committee on the Department of General Services," said the North Palm Beach Legislator, "I have not had the opportunity to come to Belle Glade because I have spent nearly all my time in Tallahassee."

"I will be in Belle Glade on Friday afternoon to hear from any constituents," said Lewis. "If anyone has any questions, comments or complaints, or just wants to drop by and say hello, I'd be glad to see them."

The legislative session begins on April 6th," Lewis said, "so this will be the last time to talk to your legislator in person before the session begins, unless of course you are lucky enough to come to Tallahassee and watch the Legislature in progress."

Walkathon

These are more of the scenes along the line of march of Superwalk '76 Saturday as 431 Belle Glade residents turned out for the Fourth Annual Glades Walkathon sponsored by the March of Dimes. The only really casualty of the day was Chuck Rimes (top left), who cut his foot. Mrs. Marjorie Echols; walkathon coordinator for the past three years, (above) had her first chance to walk...and it looks like she feels it. Bicycles (top right) were a constant concern but most walkers ignored them while still others joined up in groups to make the walk more pleasant for everyone.

Library gets Moody Manuals

The current set of Moody's Manuals has been added to the reference department of your Belle Glade Municipal Library.

This service provides the most comprehensive financial information available on corporations in the areas of industry, transportation, public utilities, banking and finance. In addition, there are volumes on municipalities and governments.

All of this information is updated twice weekly by news reports - both favorable and unfavorable - to reflect changes as they occur in the worlds of business and finance.

In addition to the investment information and advice, Moody's can be helpful in many ways: sales information, checking on insurance companies or banks, and even clues to good job hunting. Moody's service also includes the Bond Survey, Handbook of Common Stocks, Bond Record.

This set offers excellent information with many uses for both business firms and the individual. The library staff will be glad to assist you in their use. Come visit your public library.

Cane saves big $$

The sugarcane plant is a highly productive one, providing not only raw sugar and molasses, but a wealth of by-products. For example, molasses is used in the manufacture of rum and vodka; an extremely important derivative of molasses is alcohol which is then further broken down into ethyl and industrial alcohols. Yeast for baking, and cattle feed are also made from molasses.

The fibrous by-product - bagasse, shown above - is used in the process of making paper, compressed fiberboard, wallboard, and insulating board. It is also utilized in making both nylon and plastics.

Used for the majority of the fuel at our sugar mills, this by-product actually electricity. Without it, Florida's sugar industry would need to consume more than one hundred million gallons of commercial fuel oil each year.

About 80 million gallons of commercial fuel are saved because of this bagasse. This yearly savings amounts to 1,146,655,520 kilowatt hours, which is enough electrical power (according to Florida Power & Light estimates) for the residential load of 104,000 homes for one year. This savings each year would supply the Clewiston residential load for 41 years.

The amount of electric energy conserved each year would handle the West Palm Beach residential demand for slightly more than five years (based on FPL figures of KWH residential usage there during 1975).

The Gulf Stream Council kicked off its three year Development Program for $859,000 on Sunday, Mar. 14. More than 400 workers were present at the Kick Off.

Chuck Klein was the Chairman of the event. The program was M.C'd by Klein and Astronaut Ed Mitchell. Guest speaker was John Clearhout of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Joe Stock and his Western Group provided the entertainment. Refreshments were furnished by Pepsi Cola and McDonalds Hamburgers.

James H. Kimberly, General Chairman, called for the advance a gift report. $19,450.00 was turned in by workers against the total goal of $859,000.00. This represents 23 per cent of the entire goal.

There will be ten report meetings each Thursday starting on March 26th.
